“It was clear from the outset that we wanted to reach a wider public with Balcoon, so it’s kind of a democratic project. The name of the series reflects the practice of overlapping the basic geometries of the square and circle.”

Patricia Urquiola

Naturally beautiful, timelessly modern

The Balcoon bathroom range by Patricia Urquiola is a fascinating combination of modernity and timeless elegance – minimalistic yet also with a strong design identity. The designer has created an earthy terracotta shade for the ceramic objects that perfectly showcases their natural tactility and unique materiality. The range draws an inviting warmth from the furniture's harmonious, nature-inspired colour scheme.

Pure aesthetics meet earthy colour palettes

Clay as a canvas for design

“Our aim was to use clay as a material to create a kind of canvas that lends the sanitary objects more depth. This was a deliberate departure from the minimalistic aesthetic of pure white or black. The earthy terracotta shade and the nature-inspired colour scheme of the bathroom furniture, with nuances of white, earthy shades of brown, and anthracite, herald a new openness to colour in the bathroom. The name of the range, ‘Balcoon’, came from the idea of playing with geometries – using height differences, overlaps and different compositions. Despite the minimalistic shapes, we wanted to express a certain complexity through the arrangement of the elements.”

PATRICIA URQUIOLA

Sculptural elegance

Versatile in terms of form and colour

The Balcoon countertop basins combine shape, colour and material to produce a harmonious and comprehensive work of art far removed from short-term trends. Patricia Urquiola has created an impressive architectural moment by placing round and oval washbasins on a square plinth, creating a sculptural focal point in the room that extends beyond mere function. Key to the aesthetic is the earthy terracotta shade Clay Terra Matt, which imbues the objects with a warm elegance. Alternatively, all Balcoon ceramic objects are also available in classic White or White Satin Matt, opening up a wide range of design opportunities.

Easy-to-clean design and premium quality. For every day.

The earthy terracotta shade Clay Terra Matt is an important detail of the Balcoon bathroom range. So, too, is the interplay of two levels, which is implemented consistently on the washbasin, the toilet and the bidet. All ceramic objects in the collection come as standard with the hygienic, easy-to-clean DuraShield® protective glaz, which make everyday life just a little bit easier. This is a premium feature that Duravit has introduced as a brand-new standard in the medium price segment along with first-class craftsmanship.

Design that characterises the room

The perfect interplay of dynamism and harmony

With its integrated rear panel, the console is just one of the striking details of the Balcoon collection that creates a unique spatial dimension. It is overlaid with the drawer front and the open shelf beneath. The visual tension is further reinforced by the combination of contrasting colours.

Powder shades, natural colours, pure aesthetics.

The colour scheme of the nature-inspired Balcoon bathroom furniture comprises light, powdery nuances such as Ivory and Sand Beige. A soft, feminine atmosphere in the room is created in combination with ceramics in White. The handle-free aesthetic is a further expression of the clear and elegant concept, while textured furniture finishes create special accents, adding depth to the design.

The washing area, with its two countertop basins, offers plenty of storage thanks to four large drawers – ideal for an organised and tidy bathroom that can also handle with the demands of family life. The single washing area with an open shelf exudes a sense of lightness and is perfect for small rooms.

Puristic geometry meets timeless sophistication

The new furniture washbasins add a striking design statement to the Balcoon series. The washbasins appear as monolithic ceramic cubes with the basin seamlessly integrated. A narrow rim outlines the contours, creating a soft transition from surface to basin – a subtle yet sophisticated detail.

With four widths from 600 to 1300 mm and three expressive colour options - classic White, White Matt, and Clay Terra Matt - flexible planning is possible for both private bathrooms and demanding projects. When complemented by matching furniture, faucets and mirrors, the result is a harmonious overall look. The combination of high-quality materials and premium features in the mid-range price segment makes Balcoon the ideal choice for those wanting to combine timeless aesthetics and functionality.

Impressive overall concept

Design meets sustainability

Patricia Urquiola has designed faucets for the washbasins and countertop basins, bidet, shower, and bathtub to match the minimalistic design of the Balcoo range and perfectly complement the harmonious overall picture. The elliptical handle transitions into the faucet body in a gentle curve, making it particularly pleasant to hold.

Three surface variants – Chrome, Black Matt and Brushed Stainless Steel – give the bathroom furniture its finishing touch and complementing the range's harmonious colour spectrum. At the same time, there is more to Balcoo than impressive design: with innovative functions like FreshStart and MinusFlow, the Balcoo faucets actively help conserve resources. These technologies not only save water, but also energy.

The Balcoo washbasin mixers are also available as a variant with an operating lever on the side as an additional design option. The faucets for the bathtub and shower also come as concealed and exposed variants, with a freestanding bathtub faucet rounding out the range.

Ceramic in its purest form

For demanding projects

Balcoon is a versatile bathroom range in the medium price segment – the ideal choice for budget-friendly yet sophisticated bathroom design. Whether in a hotel, a residential construction project or a guest bathroom, the collection combines functionality with attractive design.

The wall-mounted washbasin, inspired by the oval countertop basin, retains the clever interplay of two levels and is available in three sizes. The clear separation of wet and dry areas with practical vanity surfaces on the tap platform is especially impressive.

The floor-mounted toilet and bidet feature clear geometric form and perfect visual harmony – a stylish pair that blends seamlessly into the overall picture. All ceramic objects come with the hygienic, easy-to-clean DuraShield® protective glaze as standard. This makes cleaning easier, reduces cleaning time and provides a strong argument for use in project business.

The Balcoon acrylic built-in bathtubs masterfully echo the interplay between two levels and feature not just one, but two visually striking details: The oval, raised edge of the tub sits on a acrylic surface panel that extends into the corners. This creates spacious shelf areas that are easy to keep clean. The design of the bottom of the bathtub is also perfectly suited as a shower surface. Above all, however, the ergonomic interior is an invitation to spend some time relaxing in a warm bath – alone or à deux depending on the selected size. With two colour variants, White or Matt White, you can design a bathroom perfectly tailored to your taste.
